

PRESS RELEASE

Buttcon Expanding to Western Canada

February 7th, 2022 - Calgary, Alberta - Buttcon Holdings Limited is pleased to announce that we will be expanding to Western Canada. This expansion supports Buttcon's strategic plan of being the construction partner of choice for owners, consultants, trades, and employees across Canada. This permanent office in Calgary will manage all construction projects in Western Canada and will operate as Buttcon West.

Buttcon has previously completed work in Calgary, Kelowna, and Vancouver and with our 42 years of construction experience has always wanted to gain a presence in the expanding ICI and residential construction markets in Alberta, British Columbia, and Saskatchewan. In addition, Buttcon sees its capabilities in Energy Retro Fits, Mass Timber, and Modular Construction as a benefit to clients by providing best-in-class construction solutions and experienced trade partners.

We are also pleased to announce that Kevin Lawlor will be leading our team in western Canada as President & CEO of Buttcon West, based out of Calgary, Alberta.

Kevin will be reporting directly to Mark Butt, CEO of Buttcon Holdings, in Concord, Ontario. Kevin will ensure that the values and mission of Buttcon are rooted in the foundations of our growth and will be responsible for operations throughout Western Canada. Kevin's 25 years of experience in Western Canada gives Buttcon an immediate presence by bringing his knowledge, passion, and problem-solving approach to each project. His network of quality trade partners and knowledge of local markets will provide value-driven solutions for the most complex projects. We value Kevin's ability to work collaboratively with clients, to instill safety, quality, and progressive practices and processes in everything we do.

"For Buttcon this is an exciting opportunity, and we are honoured to be part of Western Canada's construction industry. To be actively involved with local communities and to build in Western Canada fulfills our vision of being a coast-to-coast builder and we are proud of the staff that has given us the confidence to grow" says Mark Butt. Buttcon West has the experience and support to complete major projects, historical projects, or more specialized sustainable projects for clients. Mark says, "Kevin has seamlessly fit in with our team, his enthusiasm, insight, and market experience give Buttcon the ability to immediately provide construction services to clients and communities in western Canada".

"Growing up in White Rock, BC and working in Calgary for 24 years and to now lead the team in Western Canada is something that I have always aspired to, and I am very fortunate for this opportunity," says Kevin. "Buttcon has always been a construction company that rolls up their sleeves to get a job done. From Site Supers to Senior Executives everyone gets involved to ensure projects are on time, delivered with quality, and provide value-driven solutions. They respect and listen to clients, trade partners, and staff to ensure the success of each project. We all look forward to building the Buttcon Way".
